THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

1. Sixteen fuel tankers were observed anchored on the Kupa River, at a point approximately nine kilometers above Karlovac, in Croatia, and some three kilometers below the electric power plant located on the river. These fuel tankers were anchored singly, in pairs or in threes along the left bank of the Kupa, so that the whole group covered a distance of approximately one kilometer.
2. Eleven of the stated tankers contained high-octane fuel, two of them contained kerosene and two contained oil, while the contents of the sixteenth are unknown. Altogether the tankers held a load of some 12,000 to 13,000 tons of fuel.
3. In view of the approaching severe winter weather, a commission was sent to the area for the purpose of inspecting the stated fuel tankers. These unidentified individuals will analyze the high-octane fuel, and in the event they discover that it has deteriorated, it will be replaced with fresh fuel.
4. Six bargemen and an unspecified number of soldiers and coast guardsmen were stationed in the area where the tankers are anchored. The craft are camouflaged with paint, and are partially hidden by the poplar trees which line the left bank of the Kupa River in this area. There are no trees on the right bank of the river. The land on both sides of the river in the area where the tankers are located is fenced off with barbed wire and sentinels patrol the zone. Peasants who have farm land on the bank of the Kupa River are obliged to surrender their identity documents to the sentinels and reclaim them when they leave the area. Wire nets are stretched across the Kupa River at points above and below the spot where the fuel tankers are anchored.

Comment: the presence of an oil refinery on the right bank of the Kupa River.
